

Stopping Things

When my teacher calls my name, I need to immediately stop what I'm doing and listen to her.

Sometimes there are different things happening. I may really want to see what is going on outside the window or in the classroom. But, I need to stop when the teacher calls my name.

I need to listen to the teacher.

The teacher may have something to tell me that I need to know right away.

If I don't go right away I won't hear what I need to know.

Teachers like children that listen.

I can stop what I am doing and I will listen to my teacher.
